

The sole idea about the no call list is for us not to have someone badgering us all the time to use their services or have us come back. As a consumer, if I want to use or buy something, I choose it. In that thought, I have CHOSEN not to be bothered by calls from companies trying to get me to use their company. If you let this thing the banks want to go thru, then you are really defeating the purpose of the no call list. If this part of the no call list is removed, all it will do is let those companies that have badgered us in the past to keep badgering us in the future. We are all on the list for piece of mind that we won't be bothered during dinner, or when we are about to go to bed. Please DO NOT remove this part of the clause and PLEASE keep the no call list as is, NO CHANGES. Thank you.
